Your best opportunity to partner with ASRA Pain Medicine: The Corporate Partnership Program

ASRA Pain Medicine welcomes support from its Corporate Partners. Together, we can make a difference for patients and the education of physicians who serve them.

ASRA Pain Medicine's Corporate Partnership Program is designed to develop and sustain a mutually beneficial relationship between the Society and members of industry who have a vested interest in regional anesthesia and pain management. The monies gained from the Corporate Partnership Program provide an additional source of revenue for the Society each year, which is applied toward educational and research endeavors.

By becoming an ASRA Pain Medicine Corporate Partner, you will help advance the quality of care provided by ASRA Pain Medicine members by contributing your voice and support to members' efforts in research, education, treatment, and advocacy.

Contact Angie Stengel to learn more about the many benefits of becoming an ASRA Pain Medicine Corporate Partner! Apply here, send an email, or just give us a call at 412-471-2718.

Make a
SIGNificant Difference

For a truly unique, targeted opportunity, support one or more special interest groups.

Special interest groups (SIGs) provide ASRA Pain Medicine members the opportunity to share mutual interests in a specific area of regional anesthesiology, acute pain medicine, and/or chronic pain medicine. There are 24 SIGs in all, and more than two-thirds of ASRA Pain Medicine members belong to at least one SIG.

By supporting a SIG, you receive recognition on the SIG's website home page, online community, and additional communications. We will include your logo and a link to your desired URL. Support lasts for one year and is renewable each year. Single sponsorship only; legacy support receives right of first refusal. Supporting companies may not influence content, offerings, or any educational programming.

Learn more about the ASRA Pain Medicine SIG program by contacting Michele Nichols at 412-471-2718 or mnichols@asra.com.

Connect virtually through ASRA Pain Medicine Webinars

ASRA Pain Medicine Educational Webinars offer live streaming CME content with top experts discussing cutting-edge topics and important clinical updates. Sponsorship includes placement of logo at the beginning of the presentation, verbal acknowledgement during the presentation, and linked logo on promotional and follow-up email communications.

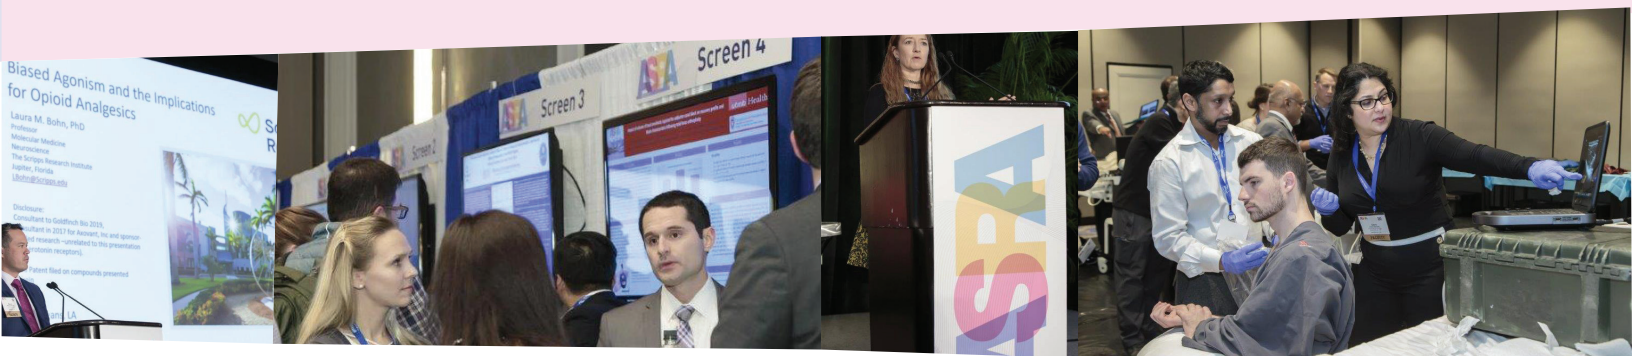

On-Demand CME keeps your message front-of-mind with webinar recordings available to participants later as a separate CME activity. Educational Webinars and On-Demand CME programs are developed completely independently of any industry financial support.

Hot Topics Webinars (non-CME) are free and designed with the trainee in mind, although everyone is welcome. Webinars with a chronic pain focus are provided in conjunction with the Association of Pain Program Directors on the first Tuesday of the month, and webinars targeted to the acute pain medicine and regional anesthesia trainee are offered on the second Tuesday of even-numbered months.

Contact Angie Stengel for more information on any of the above sponsorship opportunities.

Industry-Sponsored Webinars (non-CME) allow you to present your own content from your own experts. We'll take your registrations and provide the webinar system. We'll get the message out in ASRA Pain Medicine communications with details about the event. Your company name will be included in all communications. Additional marketing, evaluation, reporting, and recording options available. Following the program, we'll provide opt-in attendee information.

These sessions do not include CME, are independently produced, are not subject to review by ASRA Pain Medicine, and are not part of ASRA Pain Medicine's scientific/educational programming. Contact Tom Greene for more information.

Meeting Support

Educational Grants and In-Kind Support

ASRA Pain Medicine offers opportunities for industry to support educational programming through educational grants and in-kind support.
